KNOWLEDGE NETWORK PROGRAMS

SPRING 1983
January - April, 1983

supported by
NORTHWEST COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Northwest Community College is working co-operatively with the Knowledge Network of the West Communications Authority (KNOW) to bring a wide range of credit and non-credit programs to communities throughout the Northwest.

Instructional television programs are transmitted throughout the province via Canada's Anik-B satellite, located 22,000 miles above the equator. Low-cost earth stations receive the signals. In some communities, programs are rebroadcast right into your home, along with regular television.

For students who cannot or do not wish to attend TV lessons at home, Northwest Community College provides special viewing classrooms. Call us if you would like to attend at any of the centres listed below.

Wherever You Are

Whatever Your Schedule

Every semester, hundreds of OLI students prove that home study fits beautifully into busy lives. Shiftworkers, parents with young children at home, business managers, salespeople on the move, and people living in forestry or industrial camps find OLI's distance learning system the perfect answer to their need to go on learning without sacrificing other commitments. Senior citizens and people with special needs find OLI's home study courses especially convenient.

People are using OLI courses in a variety of ways. They're upgrading office or management skills, gaining new knowledge in their professions or fields of interest, taking programs that will help them advance in their careers, earning degrees and certificates, and picking up important courses that will qualify them for further study elsewhere — all without leaving their homes or disrupting their personal schedules to attend classes. And OLI tutors and advisors are on hand via toll-free telephone to answer questions and help solve problems.

Wherever you are, whatever your schedule, home study courses can fit into your life. Distance learning with OLI may be just what you're looking for to get ahead or broaden your horizons.
